the organization a politico-social club, in which prominent politicians of both parties are invited to take part. The project, it now turns out, is a for-lorn hope movement to save the fint-lock demo-cracy from defeat at the approaching election. Both the republicans and the young democracy repudiate it accordingly.

While the Jersey City Common Council were re ducing the appropriation for the public schools they were giving out large jobs on streets to a few prominent politicians against whom competition would be unavailing. One of these jobs brought ever $50,000, according to the Comptroller's report at the last meeting of the Board. It is the intention of many members of the Board of Education to press a resolution at the next meeting calling on the Legislature to protect the rights of the Board by additional legislation.

The following prisoners were sentenced in the Passaic County Court, at Paterson, on Saturday Judge Sandford presiding:-Frank and Margaret Judge Sandford presiding:—Frank and Margaret McWilliams, for keeping a disorderly house; the former to $50 fine and costs, and the latter to one year in the State Prison. NEWARK CRIMINALITIES.

On Saturday afternoon there was arrested by the police of Newark an Englishman, twenty-four years of age, named John Cooke, who stands charged with the crime of grand larceny. From the affidavit of the complainant, Matthew Clark, of Belleville, it appears that early yesterday morning the prisoner, who boarded with Clark, entered the chamber of the latter, broke open his trunk and stole therefrom a hank book representing $100, besides $18 in cash, telonging to one Timothy Sartlett. At the savings bank in Newark Cooke represented himself as Clark and was paid over the money, When arrested he confessed his quitt and handed over twenty-eight dollars. The falance, he says, was stolen from himself, together with an overcoat. He is a car driver by occupation. He was fully committed for trial.

SAD DEATH OF AN ARTIST

In the death of Edward Lees Glew, which took at his house in Newark, N. J., last Friday morning the world of arts and literature has lost one of its most beautiful if not brilliant lights. Mr. Glew was most beautiful if not brilliant lights. Mr. Giew was a naive of Dublin, a graduate of Trinity College, and a portrait and scenic painter of the highest gentias, besides being a writer of acknowledged ability. A few weeks ago he completed the dream of his life—a mammoth representation on canvas of Donnybrook Fair in its painless days some thirty years ago. Being a regular vasitor to the renowned "Brook?" in his early manhood, and being personally acquainted with such visitors as Carlino, Sain Lover, Tom Steele, and many other Irish Colstrities, he was peculiarly fitted to produce what, in truth, he did, a vivid representation. In his anxiety to realize this absorbing desire, he omitted aroviding for a severe attack of pleurisy, the result of an overworked brain, and died overtaken by pecuniary misfortunes. He came of Welsh stock and was the last of his name. Some two years say tidings reached him that beyond a doubt he was sole hely to a large and valuatie property in wates, called Read-a-Wales; but he had no means to prosecute his claim. He leaves a widow, but no family.

M. to one P. M., and the third tour from one P. M. to five P. M. The majority of the men, it is said, are well pleased with the change.

Dr. Cochran, Health Officer of Brooklyn, has unearthed the fact that a regular, systematic process violating the sanitary blockade recently estabished between this city and Governor's Island is in vogue. Liquor dealers along the river front in South Brooklyn have been in the habit of communicating with the pestilential post and carrying whiskey to the garrison; even going so far as to convey soldiers from the island to this city and back. The doctor is endeavoring to arrest and punish the offenders.

"The Religious Condition of the Country" is the title of a lecture to be delivered by the Rev. I. T. Hecker, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, on Tuesday, 18th inst., in aid of the fund for the "St. Vincent's Home for Boys." The institution in ques-tion is one of the notiest extant, providing, as it does, for the care, culture, shelter and protection of the homeless and frieudiess boys of the streets of Brooklyn. The lecture will prove a rare intellectual treat.

ARMY INTELLIGENCE.

First Lieutenant Mark Walker and Second Lieutenant W. R. The United States steamer Kearsarge, Commodore Thornton, arrived here on the 1st, in forty-one days from Callao. The arrival of this vessel has created no little excitement among both foreigners and natives. The story of how the Kearsarge sunk the Alabama has been repeated often and again. The officers of the two United States ships Kearsarge and Jamestown, got up a boat race yesterday, the contesting boats being fourteen-oared cutters, belonging to the respective ships. ESCAPE OF A DESERTER.

How He Attempted to Swim the Ohio River and was Fired On by the Soldiers.

and was Fired On by the Soldiers.

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer, Oct. 3.]

William Bache, a private in the United States Army at Newport barracks, was tried yesterday as a deserter and condemned to one year's imprisonment at hard labor. Last evening he had been sent down, with others, to the edge of the Licking river to assist in filling the tabs, on which the garrison is now dependent for its water supply, armed sentinels, as usual, accompanying the party. A moment after reaching the river bank Bache plunged headlong into the stream and began swimming for the opposite shore. The sentinels fired hastily and carelessly, and missed the strong swimmer, who rapidly widened the distance between himself and danger. The guard rushed to the scene upon hearing the firing, but when they were prepared to open fire upon the deserter the latter was about 500 yards up stream and well away toward the Covington shore. When the guard opened fire there was a rattle of musketry like that coming from a skirmish line, and the bullets fell thick and fast around the head of the swimmer. The excitement at this moment was intense. Both banks of the river were crowded with people, assembled to hear the music of the band at parade and witness the military display, little expecting to be present at a shooting trial at which the target was a human life. The sympathies of the people seemed to be with the deserter, and many a heart teat hard and fast as Bache, reaching the shore unhurt, rose erect and paused exhausted, or, perhaps, with a wonderful presence of mind that saved his life. Certain it is that the slightest movement toward further escape would have been the signal for his death, for twenty paused exhausted, or, perhaps, with a wonderfol presence of mind that saved his life. Certain it is that the slightest movement toward further escape would have been the signal for his death, for twenty muskets had the range of his body, now wholly exposed to the fire. At the command of the officer of the day the guard ceased firing, but kept their mark covered, while a detail of four men went over in a skiff and recaptured the desperate prisoner, who was brought back and placed in irons.

DEATH OF A BROOKLYN POLITICIAN.

Thomas Giddings, a prominent Brooklyn politi-cian, whose name was conpied with the aspirants for the nemination of County Clerk, and who unti recently filled a position as assistant keeper in Ray mond street jail, died on Saturday evening of hemor-rhage of the lungs, at his residence, in Navy street, Deceased was about thirty-five years of age.

A STRANGE SCENE IN THE CHAMBER OF DEATH.—During the funeral services of a young man in Hermon, Me., on Monday last, who died of putrid fever, the minister officialing was interrupted by an occasional groan from a woman who is called among them a spiritualist. She soon arose, and with aplified hands and shaking passed by him into the room of the mourners, stood by the comin and began to pound upon it. Raising the lid she continued with quick, regular an., heavy strokes to heat the deceased until the body became marred and emitted an offensive odor. One hand was used until weary, then the other, this process continuing for two hours, when she was completely exhausted. After a brief space she attempted to commence again, but was too much exhausted to proceed. The minister had concluded the services, and the body was conveyed to the grave. Some of the friends and neighbors sympathized with the woman in her spiritualistic views, and it was thought best not to interfere. They had some idea that the dead might be raised to life.—Bangor (Me.) Whig. A STRANGE SCENE IN THE CHAMBER OF DEATH.

He is the only editor, probably, in the world who has written of the exit of both Napoleons in the same paper.

The election in Missouri has a particular interest arising from the division in the republican ranks on the question of restoring the ballot to ex-rebels. A large party, under the able leadership of Senator Carl Schurz and ex-Congressman Gratz Brown, have declared in favor of enfranchising the rebels, while Governor McClurg heads the regular republican party, and holds that the time for rebel enfranchisement has not yet come.

THE CAMPAIGN IN NEW YORK.

The Charges Against General Woodford. By the following extract from the Buffalo Courter it will be seen that the business of throwing mud at political opponents is pretty well understood in the political opponents is pretty well understood in the Western part of the State:

General Woodford comes hither with his name wrapped in a mephitic vapor of evil report. We have not taken much stock in the stories told of his venality and crimes. They are mostly related on republican authority, and we are usually suspicious of that. An ex-United States marshal has charged, for example, that two thousand dollars is the price at which General Woodford on a certain occasion held his official honor, and permitted an African slave trader to escape the just reward of his feleny. The same radical ex-official asserts that the facts are on record and notorious among leading republicans, the fugitive Horace Greeley among the number. This may or may not be true, but, since General Woodford has chosen neither to confess nor deny the truth of this and other grave charges affecting his character, it is no business of ours to push the matter further. The public must give its judgment on the case as it stands. But there is one other charge against him, as a State official, which the Courier was the first to make, and which we now repeat. It is that in the State Senate, in April, 1568, he gave his vote for the perpetuation of the plan of contract repairs on the canals, that vote being the decisive one which saved the rotton system for two years from destruction at the hands of the indignant people of this State. We charge, on the face of the racts and on the authority of Senator Stanford, that this bad, mischievous and utterly indefensible vote was cast by Lieutenant Governor Woodford for a corrupt consideration.

More Alleged Official Menuneus.

Wellsville (N. Y.) Free Press (republican) charges Hamilton Ward, republican member of Congress from the New York Twenty-seventh district, with having mercilessly mulcted one Brush, of Steuben, out of $200. Brush is a poor young man, a clerk at Washington, with a salary of $1,200 a year.

Ward goes to Brush and tells aim he has a friend who has done good polizani service who insists upon having a clerkahip and that he must give way. Brush holds up his wichered leg and crutch and pleads to stay. Ward "is sorry," but finally offers to let him offer a zobe of $200, to be paid in monthly installments of fifty dollars each. The Free Freez editor says he knows he is publishing the truth, that he has seen the note, with the four fifty dollar endorsequents signed by the Albany "cauper" paid.

"NETTA" AND HER TRADUCERS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8, 1870.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-Availing myself of your former kindness I desire to announce, through the columns of your valuable paper, to the public and the parties who contributed to "Netta" in aid of her association (for I feel at liberty to call it mine, having identified myself with it), that I am not non est, neither have I flown, not possessing wings; and also if the party who called on the president (Wittenbeecher) of our association will please call on Netta, or state where they can be found, I will pay my respects in person and assure meeting of the Saleswomen's Early Closing Association our president advised me to secure money for a fund, for I had stated that parties would assist me willingly in my efforts which I intend shall be used for the purpose of they are some of our finest, smartest gentlemen, who in their own line of business look for security from parties to whom they entrust money. "Netta knows she is not authorized to receive subscriptions." I heard the motion offered, seconded and adopted that "Netta be authorized to collect money for the association," said motion being offered by Mr. Ling, our sergeant-at-arms. I think the remarks of our president were unjust and uncalled for, and I feel that the public and the press will sustain Netta in this matter. I now call upon Nelson Young, Miss Leonard, of the Umbreila Makers' Society, and the presidents of any society of this city, whether male or female, to inform me if they allow their treasurers to hold the funds belonging to their societies without receiving bonds. I do not wish the public to think I doubt Mr. Houghton, but what custom has sanctioned in other societies I think ours should obey also. I have thrown up my position so that I might be enabled to secure a fund. The president and Mr. Houghton propose to spend this money in getting up a series of hops. I collected it to pay the board of the discharged saleswomen. I have no objection to a ball in aid of the funds, but the public will soon tire of such amusements. To the press who have so well aided such a little, defence-less woman and the workingmen who have promised their aid, again I return my thanks. As I have thrown myself on the generosity of the press and the public I look to them for support.

It appears that the three officers were at breakfast in the restaurant, when some conversation occurred about a woman whom Slavin was supporting as his mistress, at least so the allegation goes, and McLaughlin told Slavin that this woman had come up to him on post a few nights since and, mistaking him for Slavin, attempted to kiss him, an intrusion which he at once resented; but as McLaughlin requested Slavin to keep his women to himself the latter took umbrage and some angry words ensued, the result being that both men lost their tempers and engaged in a very hard fight, in the course of which part of Slavin's under lip was bitten off and part of McLaughlin's upper lip also. Slavin made a formal complaint against McLaughlin before Justice Hogan yesterday, and the latter was held to answer in $300 bail. GENERAL O'NEILL. IN PRISON.—The statement that General O'Neill, the Fenian leader, and his fellow soldiers, who are confined in the Windsor State Prison, are under no restraint, proves to be incorrect. Their treatment is precisely what is required by law, the United States courts having decided, some time ago, that a distinction is to be made between ordinary convicts and prisoners who are in custody for a civil offence. The laiter are not obliged to wear the prison dress or to be put at hard labor, and the Fenian prisoners are treated in accordance with these regulations. While their food is the con mon prison fare the; are not confined to cells, nor are they obliged to work or associate with the other convicts.

OLD WORLD ITEMS.

An English shipbuilder remarks upon the farst that the bulk of our fron-class fleet is now obsolete and that four and a half inch plated ships bear 'che same relation to recently constructed turret s'alpa as de the old wooden screws to the Warrior, and suggests that some of our twenty-seven vessels, having armor of only four and a half inches thickness should be converted into powerful tarret ships, using the material from the upper works to double or even treble the armor on the water line.

The state of the British shipping trade is de scribed as being much less satisfactory than might have been anticipated under existing circumstances. It appears that the interruption to general comnerce has more than neutralized the advantages consequent on the withdrawal of the competition of German vessels.

Of the Irish colony recently started in Algeria the London Standard says:-

Toward the end of isse year a party of Irish emigrants, encouraged by the representations of an irishman named Leonard, of Paris, and others, landed in Aigerla. Those of them who had not died from privations and fever were this week admitted into the Whitechapel Union (having made their way back amid great hardsulps, via Marsellies and Paris), whence they will or have been forwarded to their homes in Ireland.

The magistrates and Town Council of Munich have resolved that 3,000 florins of the sum designed for the October fete shall be devoted to the illumination of the public buildings on the celebration of the entry into Paris of the German troops.

A letter from Bamberg states that when two trains with 3,000 French prisoners from Sedan passed through the town the majority of the men were barefoot, and the contrast which they offered to a train of the Saxon supplementary battalion was indescribable.

Letters in the German papers state that as King William rides along through the French villages in France the people flock out to have a peep at him and "Monsieur Bismarck." The latter, for instance, daring his brief stay in the city of Rheims had become in a manner popular, which must have been troublesome to him, for when the people had learned to distinguish him he had only to appear in order to collect a crowd. Those who knew him took a pride in pointing him out, and the others were anxious to get to know him.

A statement recently made before a Parliamentary committee, and relating to thirty nawaphroking large.

A statement recently made before a Parliamentary committee, and relating to thirty pawnbroking businesses in Liverpool, shows that in the year 1869 702,657 pledges were taken in for the loan of sums not exceeding 2.8 6d.; 63,477 for 28, 5d. and not exceeding 19s.; 74,530 for 10s. and not exceeding £10. The interest received amounted to £16,692, the ticket fees to £3,378. The gross profit, therefore, amounted to £19,470, being 17.3 per cent on the amount of capital employed, which was £112,608. But the rent and other business expenses amounted to 11,1 per cent on the capital, and deducting five per cent for interest the net profit was only one-half per cent on the capital. The average net profit per pledge was not quite one farthing.

Escape of Maryland Oystermen from a Virginia Prison. BALTIMORE, Oct. 9, 1870.

The nine captains of Maryland oyster vessels who were confined in jail at Drammondtown, Accoma county, Virginia, broke the jail on Sunday night and escaped. They have reached their homes in Mary-land. The vessels are still held by the Virginia au-thorities, well guarded.
